FLORETTAWINSTHE STAKES

THE BLACK FILLY RUNS AWAY FROM APPLEGATE AND THE HARTFORD.

Daly's Gelding Not in Condition-St, Michael Picked to Win the Opening Bash, but Will Fonce Lands in Front with Ease-Logan Downs Equity-A Poor Field of Malden Three-year-olds-Hermin's Clever Victory - Meey Takes the Last Purse.

WASHINGTON, April 15.-An eminent turfman once remarked that W. C. Daly had, by good fortune, obtained at different times more tough thoroughbreds than any other horseman in America, and the same authority said that the Hartford turfman would be lost with a really great race horse in his stable, one that required careful handling and patient waiting upon. The truth of this was illustrated at St. Asaph this afternoon, when Daly sent his really great twoyear-old gelding. The Hartford, to the post for the St. Asaph Stakes, The gelding had been coughing for some time, and he was blistered and turned out. That was more than two weeks ago. Since that time all the preparation The Hartford got for to-day's race was a half mile in 54 seconds and a fast quarter in 23% seconds. The public seemed to take it for granted that The Hartford would do for them to place their ney on, for when the betting opened the play was very heavy on him, and for a time he ruled an equal favorite with the Blemton filly Floretta, winner of the Monticello Stakes a week ago. There were only three starters, Applegate, the McCafferty representative, alone gelding. At post time Floretta was a slight favorite over The Hartford, while even money could be had against Applegate for the place. The Hartford spoiled two starts by swerving to wardthe inner rail. Then McCafferty depulled Applegate up, spoiling a third effort. He declared that his colt was tangled in his stride. This is an old dodge of McCafferty's, and did He was warned to be up with his horses, and the flag fell at the next attempt. with the trio head and head. Floretta shot away, and after going to the first quarter pole in 2316 seconds, had the others beaten. Applesate ran out on the turn, but The Hartford was so palpably unfit that he stopped to nothing in the run home, and Applegate was easily second. Floretta promises to be a stake filly of high epening race, and once more the big gelding played his backers false. Will Fonso shot away from his competitors half a mile from home and won cleverly. Senator Vest and St. Michael had a drive for second money, the last named getting it by a neck. While at the post Darkness kicked and caught, one of his legs over the top rail. He hung there until the fence broke down, and then half fell into the ditch. He was withdrawn. He will hardly run for some time, as his leg is badly skinned from hoof to hock.

Logan won the dash of a mile. Equity was the easy money favorite, and there was a how of disappointment from Owner Downing and the backers of the mare over the manner in which she was ridden by Reiff. Logan went sway in front, and was never approached. Little Matt, at 50 to 1, ran an unexpectedly good race. from his competitors half a mile from home Travesty was the best of a poor lot of maiden Travesty was the best of a poor lot of maiden three-year-olds, and won the fourth event with odds of a to I against him. The entire field of seven horses would be dear at $700.

Hermis, played off the boards, won the fifth race for two-year-olds in dashing style, running the distance over the heavy track in 51½ seconds. Montexums ran a close second to Hermia until the upper turn, and then ran eut and lost his chances for any part of the purse.

The worst field of bad actors in the United States faced the starter in the last race at five furiongs. Hoey, Wah Jim, and Capt. Brown are kickers and pivoters of a high order, while Fidget is a spinning top and chases his tail like adog. It took twenty minutes to get them away. Finget is a spinning too and chases his tall like a dog. It took twenty minutes to get them away. Hoey and Capt. Brown had a rare tussie for three furlongs, with Wah Jim and Lollie Eastin in close attendance. In the atretch Hoey drew away and won by a length. Capt. Brown beat Lollie Eastin as far for second money. There was a collision at the first turn, and several horses almost fell. Summaries:

FANDANGO'S TENNESSEE DERBY. Orth's Golding Wins Handlly-Sister Mary Breaks the Track Record.

MEMPRIS, Tenn.. April 15. - One of the most important turf events in the South, and the first important race of the season in this country, was decided on the course of the New Memphis Jockey Club this afternoon, when M. Orth's bay gelding Fandango, by Farandole-Fidele, galloned in an easy winner by five lengths, in the Tennessee Derby, worth $4,056. There were hearly 10,000 persons present. Six hours before the fell flag Fandango was not seriously regarded as a good thing. William Martin accompanied the horse from Louisville and had the mount. When the books opened the local talent could see nothing in the race but G. R. Morris, and his odds were soon forced down to 2 to 1.

The start was a solendid one, the horses getting away on the first break, with Prince in the lead, a head in front of Wells Street, who was the same distance in front of G. R. Morris. Fandaugo was in the rear, though not far. At the quarter Gath had forged three lengths shead, Prince dropping to the rear, where he remained. Fandaugo had climbed to third place at a swinging gallop, with fisth second. At the three-quarter pole Fandaugo had taken the lead, Gath second, and G. H. Morris third. Fandaugo was hotly pressed here, having a lead of only a neck. But he pulled out and entered the stretch two lengths shead, which he increased to five at the wire. The time [1:594, is the best ever made in a Borby on this track, though it lacks four seconds of the track record for the distance.

In the opening event of the day Sister Mary broke the track record by half a second, covering the distance in 1:155. Rey el Fanta Anita won the last race in a gallop. Summaries:

FOREIGN ROOK MUST BE STOPPED, Or the License of the Virginia Jeckey Clat

Will Be Revoked at Once. The Virginia Jockey Club, now racing at St. Asaph, must at once choose between the foreign book located in the vicinity of the course and the Jockey Club. There is no alternative. Should the fereign book be continued at the track to-morrow the Jockey Club license under which it is now racing will be at once revoked. This decision was reached at a meeting of the stewards of the Jockey Club held at the office of August Belmont, 23 Nassau street, yesterday, Besides Mr. Belmont, who presided, Dr. Gidcon Lee Knapp, Col. W. P. Thompson, James R. Keene, J. O. Donner, and F. K. Sturgis were Keene, J. U. Donner, and F. K. Sturgis were present.

State Senator Mushback of Virginia appeared on behalf of the St. Asaph managers. He presented documentary evidence to show that St. Asaph had absolutely no connection with or control over the foreign book at the course. It is scarcely fair, he said, to ask the Virginia Jockey Club to interfere with something which really did not concern it. Neither his argument nor his evidence was conclusive, in the opinion of the stewards, however, and Secretary Hanlon was instructed to notify the Virginia Jockey Club that it must discontinue the foreign book or forfeit his license at once.

Hookmaker M. Wolff, familiarly known on all the Eastern tracks as "Carley B.," applied to be reinstated, but his application was dealed. "Carley H." was ruled off at the Narragausett Park meeting last fail on the complaint of Jockey Viarry Jones. The latter confessed that he pulled a horse at the request of "Carley H." who, he said, promised to pay him for the Job. The application of Jockey W. Whyburn for reinstatement was also denied.

HARVARD'S NEW SHELL.

IIS DESIGNER GIVES ITS CORRECT
LINES AND MEASUREMENTS.

As Experimental Boas and Has Yet to Me Tested Built for the '57 Crew, but the 'Varsity Will Have One if it Has Merit,
From the Bostom Heraid.

It is well known that an experimental eightcared shell has been designed and built for Harvard. It has not been tested as yet, but will be within a few days, and, if it proves to possess qualities of value, another, on the same lines, but much lighter, will undoubtedly be constructed for the use of the 'varsity crew. The impression exists that this new shell is intended for the big crew. Such is not the case, however. It is for '97, but, as before stated, if it possesses most, the 'varsity circh will began and the bean and resperiment, and while placement, I have designed the beat to carry certain weighted. The construction is the work of others. ever. It is for '97; but, as before stated, if it possesses merit, the 'varsity eight will benefit of others.

"What has been aimed at is to got a fair curve of areas—fairer than those found in old English boats or in our own racing shells."

over Yale on the water this year, a number of ideas and suggestions have been proposed. This experimental shell is the result of one of them. t was argued that great advances in the construction of racing yachts had been made, with increased speed as a result, and that efforts in the same direction with respect to racing shells should prove equally fruitful and beneficial, and Coach R. C. Watson had Mr. Henry Bryant of this city design a craft upon scientific lines. A glance at the shell proves at once to the eye that it is radically different from all others which have been in use for years. In a general way it may be described as resembling a Perfecto cigar in shape, being drawn to a fine point on one end and widening out aft. The greatest beam measurement is close to No. 6 seat, while the nose of the shell is as fine as that of a sin-gle, as will be seen by an inspection of the lines of the fore body shown in the cut which accom-panies this article. The stern is another notice-able diversion from the old-style shells, being square and flat. Then, again, the rudder is a variation.

Van Tassell and Kearney's Popular Traps.

Two notable auction sales are scheduled for this week in the up-town horse market, while down town, in the busy Twenty-fourth street district, I. H. Dahlman will have something like 600 head of horses to sell before the end of the week. It has been three months since Mr. Dahlman opened the big new sale pavilion, just east of Third avenue, and added to his long established private sale business the auction feature. During this period more than 5,000 horses have been sent in from the West by breeders and shippers, and sold to the highest bidder. So well known is the veteran dealer to buyers and sellers all over the country, that his new departure of holding auction sales was buyers and sellers all over the country, that his new departure of holding auction sales was no sooner announced than a rush of consignments began, which quickly placed the concern at the head of the street. From the outset Mr. Dailman has handled a superior class of horses, and his special combination sale of trotters and cobs last month was one of the best that has been held in New York since the season opened. At vesterday's auction a large number of speedy, stylish road horses were among the offerings disposed of.

Probably no other establishment in the country can show an equal number of really high-class park horses, and show them to such a variety of vehicles, as the New York Coach Horse and Cob Company. If a buyer wants a single horse for gig work, a pair of high steppers for a ladies' victoria, a tandem, or a four-in-hand team, he can see two or three rigs of the same sort at once, all of them turned out in horseshow style to vehicles of the latest design, with liveried coachmen, appropriate harness, and everything in keeping with the quality and style of the horses themselves.

The Kearney trap, designed and brought out new this season by Van Tussell & Kearney, is deservedly one of the most popular four-wheeled vehicles now in use for park driving. Either with or without the concealed rumble in use it is a very stylish, rich-looking affair, modelled not a little like the fashionable Brewater trap. The Brunswick, Lasala, and Walton are other fancy traps of late design in the extensive stock that Van Tassell & Kearney now have on exhibition in their Thirteenth street warerooms.

PHILADELPHIA, April 15.-It was rumored in eveling circles to-day that evidence enough had been found by the L. A. W. Racing Board against John S. Johnson, the well-known class B racing man, to lead to his suspension from the amateur ranks on the charge of professionalism Chairman Gideon of the Racing Board, when asked about the matter, refused to say anything about it. There will be no bicycle racing for gold or silver nuggets by amateur or semi-professional racing men in this country this year. The despatch from New York stating that a match had been arranged between Walter W. Sanger and John C. Johnson, the class B racing men, was shown to Chairman George B. Gidson of the Racing Board to-day, and his opinion asked as to the fitness of amateurs racing for nuggets of gold. Mr. Gidson replied: "To race for such prizes would be professionalism, and any man competing for such a trophy would by so doing lose his amateur standing. Gold and silver are recognized as money the world over, and to race for money is clearly a violation of the rules of the League of American Wheelmen." asked about the matter, refused to say anything

In the very determined effort to score a victory | The midsection of the shell shows an ellipse

The midsection of the shell shows an ellipse, every frame being part of an ellipse—a universal section. The new shell has a longer bow than that found on the old boats, the forebody being 55 per cent, of the lond water line length. The curve of areas of the boat is a trochood aft and a compressed curve of verse signs formed. The solid line in the curve of areas plan shows the actual curve made by the vertical areas of the different sections. The dotted lines forward show a curve of versed size.

In the old boats, both English and American, the curve of vertical areas, formed by the different sections of the boats, was unfair and hard, with branches at certain points. Mr. Bryant has worked to get these out, and has obtained in the new boat an easy curve.

Again, unlike the old boats, which have both ends sharp and pointed, the new boat has a stern which messures 10 inches across. This will give longer section lines and straighter ending to the diagonals. Besides, it is thought that the new siyle of stern gives needed buoyancy on the recovery, and will prevent the stern from settling.

The new shell is designed to displace 1.756

the nose of the shell is as fine as that of a sin-cle, as will be seen by an inspection of the lines of the fore body shown in the cut which accom-panies this article. The stern is another notice-table diversion from the old-style shells, being square and flat. Then, again, the rudder is a rariation.

JASPERS FACE BIG RUSIE

AND AFTER A GOOD FIGHT ARE EASILY BEATEN.

The New Yorks Pils Un Econeh Runs at the End of the Game to Make the Score One Sided-Stafford's Fine Second Base Play Brooklys " Regulars" and "Colts" Indulge in Practice at Eastern Park,

The New Yorks entertained their old friends, the Jaspers of Manhattan College, at Manhattan Field yesterday, and for a time the collegian made things so interesting that their friends began to hope for a chance to drink out of that loving cup. But toward the end of the came the Leaguers bestirred themselves and rolled up enough runs to make the score very one

It was the first time Jim Stafford had a chance to show the critics what he could do with hard chances, and when he wound up the game in the ninth laning with two magnificent stops and throws, the verdict was all in his favor, His fielding in every instance was as clean as a whistle, and he showed beyond the question of a doubt that he can be one of the finest second basemen in the League, if he so desires. The play that was by long odds the star of the game was made by Stafford in the fourth inning. With Glennon on second and Driscoll on first, Brennan drove a high liner just to the right of second base. It was a base hit all right, and everybody expected o see the ball skip out to Van Haltren. But Stafford just then leaped high in the air and knocked the ball down. He hustled after it and finally, while in an unbalanced position, he shot the leather to Fuller in time to put out Driscoll, who was coming from first. This showed that Jim can think quick and act accordingly.

Rusie pitched his first whole game of the season, and he contented himself with using change of pace until the last inning, when he tossed the ball in and allowed the Jaspers to make two earned runs. Farrell caught him well, but his throwing was not exactly up to the mark. The pair will now take a rest until the opening pair will now take a rest until the opening league game on Thursday, and it is not too much to say that they are in superb trim. Van Haltren resumed his old place at centro field, and his arm seemed to be all right. Jack Doyle was caught napping twice, once at third hase by the old-time trick of hiding the hall, and again at first base on a quick throw from the pitcher. If he takes such desperate baserunning chances in League games he will surely come to grief.

the pitcher. If he takes such desperate baserunning chances in League games he will surely come to grief.

Credit must be given to the Jaspers for putting up a plucky game in the face of such big odds, it was natural for them to make a few errors in critical places, but some of the plays they made were hard to discount. Briscoll pitched cleverly for six innings and then began to tire under the strain, for in the seventh the New Yorks fell upon his curves and rolled up six runs. Up to that point the game had been filled with interest, and the Jaspersan rooters had made plenty of noise. But the six runs acted like a wet blanket on a small fire.

Pitcher Boswell of the New Yorks was compelled to umpire the game, and he never suffered so much in his life. When he gave several close decisions to his own team there were cries of "Kill him!" from the crowd, and when he shifted a bit and gave the Jaspers a shade the best of it, he was interviewed by nearly the cutire New York team. Boswell signed to pitch, not to umpire, and it's a too of coal to a bundle. The address of Grant, manager of the Puritan A. A. of Greenville, S. J., baseball nine is wanted by Al. Katz, Register office, this city. Katz, Register office, this city.

THE BROOKLYNS FIRST GAME AT HOME.

The Brooklyn hall players exhibited their ability to bat and to field to an admiring constituency of weatherproof cranks at Fastern Park yesterday afternoon. The wind from Jamaica Bay has lost none of its freezing-point characteristics, and it was a change for the men from the balmy atmosphere of the South. They were careful of themselves, however, and little damage is likely to result from the exercise. The game was not for idead; but it gave acharce of noting the condition of the men before the regular clamp onship senson opens. Manager Foulz divided the men as, he did down South, into two teams, the regulars and the cols. This gave a THE BROOKLYNS THEST GAME AT HOME.

The same may be said of Tredway, who is much more at home in right field. When asked why Tappen was not ruled out for fouling, the judges contended that they had a perfect right to recognize a four or not. They admitted that a four had been made. The judges became muddled, and gave the following as the final decision: Tappen won the race, but he should not get the prize.
